

EHR Donation Program

Electronic Health Record (“EHR”) Donations Programs are complex to establish and maintain, requiring formal agreements with customers who use the program. Finding the right structure, building a cost model that aligns with your requirements and ensuring you have the infrastructure to manage the operations can be overwhelming--even if you already have a Program in place and simply want to simplify the cost model and facilitate providing annual updates.

ADVISORY SERVICES ADVANTAGE

The Hall Render IT Advisory Services team (“Advisory Services”) has helped health systems solve complex business problems, implemented operational programs and managed business relationships within diverse organizations, partners and vendors. Advisory Services can analyze your existing cost model to ensure that it is appropriate and captures all costs. We have developed several cost models and worked with Hall Render attorneys to establish clients’ EHR Donation Programs.

Advisory Services can be engaged to help:

- Review and/or document your organization's Program goals, executive governance/steering committee structure and guiding principles and make recommendations, as this is foundational for all decisions;
- Document the scope of services and applications that the organization wants to provide to the community and develop service/application offerings with associated cost models, which include application, staffing, hardware and data center expenses;
- Identify and document all cost drivers and decisions associated with the program to create a scalable pricing model that meets regulatory requirements;
- Assess the capabilities of the current organization (IT technologies, architecture, capabilities, staffing) to provide the future state of service offerings and identify any potential risks, gaps or challenges for meeting expectations;
- Review of IT vendor relationships/contracts for long-term alignment and future state readiness to determine extensibility rights, pricing and changes if required;
- Recommend overall program management/command and control structure to ensure the Program achieves the business goals; and
- Create a project framework for integrating new affiliates to allow for rapid integration, which includes roles and responsibilities, on-going operational support processes and communication and change management strategies to allow for transparency and partnership that will enable a win-win offering.
